Trial of Man on Assault Charge Starts Monday

Preliminary examination of Peter Castrucci of Fairview on a charge of shooting Howard T. Bruce, 22, when Bruce went to his home on September 6 to demand explanation of an alleged insult to his wife, will be held Monday before Justice of the Peace Frank Glass at Martinez. Castrucci, who was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, is at liberty on bail of $10,000. The alleged assault occurred two months ago.

Castrucci denies Bruce's allegation of an insult to his wife and claims that he saw Bruce for the first time when he forced his way into his home and attacked him while he was in bed making a demand for money. Bruce's condition was viewed as critical for a time but he has now practically recovered from a wound in the chest.

Pleads Not Guilty To Assault Charge

A plea of not guilty was entered by Harvey Green to the charge of assault with a deadly weapon preferred against him by Mrs. Ella Miles, when he appeared in the court of Justice of the Peace L. F. Grover at San Pablo yesterday morning. He was released on $250 bail to appear when notified.

One additional complaint was worn out yesterday in the maze of warrants already issued in the case, Mrs. Mamie Green, Green's wife, charging Mrs. Miles with disturbing the peace. A similar complaint had been signed by Mrs. Miles against Mrs. Green.

The charge of assault with a deadly weapon is said to have grown out of a quarrel between Mrs. Miles and Green at the former's home, when Mrs. Miles alleges, Green struck her on the jaw.

Sustains Serious Injuries in Fall

Serious injuries were sustained by David Tennant, 664 Second street, when he fell from a scaffold as he was working on the new Hotel Veale on Macdonald avenue yesterday morning. He was rushed at once to the Emergency hospital, where it was found that three ribs had been broken and that he had sustained numerous bruises and cuts. He was later removed to the Cottage hospital. It is estimated that he fell approximately 35 feet.

Sixty To Visit New Power Project

Sixty local people are expected to leave today as guests of George N. Rooker, local manager of the Western States Gas and Electric company for the company's big power project above Placerville. Tonight the party will stop at Placerville and tomorrow will go on to the site of the new plant, which is expected to be in operation by the first of the year.

POSTPONES HEARING

Because the district attorney's force is engaged in superior court, Justice of the Peace Frank Glass yesterday postponed until next Friday re-trial of A. Evaristo of Rodeo on a charge of possession of liquor. The trial was scheduled today. The first jury disagreed 6 to 6.

S. O. Tanker Damaged In Crash Arrest Five In Clean-Up Drive

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $100,000 AS VESSEL COLLIDES WITH WAR BOAT

The Standard Oil tanker, S. C. T. Dood, starting from San Pedro to Richmond, was one of four coast vessels to figure in mishaps yesterday. The other vessels were the dreadnaught New Mexico, the Japanese freighter Shinkoku Maru and the steam schooner Elizabeth.

The grounding of the Elizabeth just inside the Coquille river at Bandon, Oregon, Thursday night, was the first mishap to be reported. The vessel proved to be in no danger and her three passengers were landed. The steamer was later floated and returned to Bandon.

The Japanese steamer Shinkoku Maru wireless at 3 o'clock yesterday morning that she was helpless, adrift and in need of assistance, with a broken tail shaft. She was 100 miles south of Unalaska at the time. The Shinkoku Maru is a vessel of 5800 tons and is bound from Japan to Portland. The coast guard cutter Algonquin was dispatched to the steamer's assistance.

Following in the wake of the report of these accidents came a collision between the Standard Oil tanker S. C. T. Dood and the dreadnaught New Mexico at San Pedro. The tanker, with 60,000 barrels of oil, was caught in a heavy tide and carried against the New Mexico. Fast work with collision nets enabled the Dood to reach a safe anchorage, though for a time it was feared she would sink on account of the heavy cargo. The tanker lost her entire bow and the damage has been estimated by shipping men at about $100,000. Several plates on the New Mexico's starboard quarter were dented, and this damage has been estimated at about $3000. The Dood was bound to Richmond.

Former Local Teacher Dies

Miss Florence Hunn, formerly a teacher in the Peres school, died at her home in San Jose Thursday, according to word received by friends and relatives yesterday. Miss Hunn was on sick leave from the local school. She was a sister of Dorothy Hunn and of Herbert Hunn.

HELD ON BOOZE CHARGE

Felipe Montestano of Vine Hill was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of having liquor in his possession. The arrest was made by deputy sheriffs who state they found a quantity of wine.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morgan of Roseburg are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. Hoskins at their home on Ventura avenue for a week or ten days.

Water District Proposal Okehd At Builders' Meet

Talks on the various proposals to come before the voters of Richmond Tuesday were given at the meeting of the Builders' Exchange, Contra Costa county, held here last night. The meet was presided over by President P. M. Sanford.

At the conclusion of the discussion the club voted to endorse the East Bay Utility District proposal and the bond issues, particularly for the bath house. It was decided that the members of the exchange would offer cars to all getting voters to the polls.

W. J. Richards explained the proposed new city charter, and his talk was favorably received. E. B. Bull of the Appraisal and Sales corporation gave an enthusiastic address on the reasons why voters who approve the proposal to join the East Bay Utility District, and also urged the builders to support the Chamber of Commerce drive. He was assured of the full support of the exchange and it was decided to invite the entire committee in charge of the chamber campaign to attend the Builders' Exchange monthly social night next Friday.

The Plumbers' division of the exchange will have charge of the preparing and serving of the banquet, and the Painters will have charge of the entertainment. A large attendance is expected. The kitchen in the exchange building has been enlarged and all electrical equipment installed. It is estimated that at present over 200 can be seated.

L. C. Dexter, secretary of the exchange, read a report from the Industrial Association of San Francisco showing the great success of the American plan in that city, and stated that the American plan was even a greater success in Richmond, as proven by the building permits issued here. The report read by Dexter showed that 85 per cent of the men engaged in manual toil in San Francisco are working under the American plan, and stated that the industrial peace that the bay section was enjoying was due to the plan under which building operations were handled. "In 1920 in San Francisco," Dexter said, "the value of building permits was over $26,000,000, and a year later when labor difficulties arose the value of permits dropped $4,000,000. Then was launched the American plan by the Industrial Association of San Francisco, and the following year building permits jumped to $45,327,339. Dexter further showed in reading from the report that the savings deposits in San Francisco banks in 1921 under closed shop conditions were $331,939,836, and two years later under existing harmony of labor under the American plan they had jumped to $384,855,954.

FINES TOTAL $2804

Yesterday there was paid into the Martinez treasury $2804 by City Marshal C. H. Palmer. The sum was collected in booze fines during the month of October. The fines having been imposed by City Recorder R. L. Boyer.

RESULT OF EL CERRITO PROBE AFFECTS BOOZE VENDERS HERE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The arrest of five men in Richmond today on charges of bootlegging was declared here tonight to have been the first results of the newly-organized fight against an alleged East Bay liquor ring, which followed the banding of forces of county, city and federal authorities to fight the bootleg graft, declared to have been unearthed at El Cerrito.

The authorities, supported by an inquisitorial committee of ten American Legionnaires, will continue the fight opened by the Federal Grand Jury.

As the basis of future investigations the authorities hold a report prepared by Federal secret service agents after a year's study of East Bay conditions. It is declared to name an official of Oakland, a member of the Oakland police department and other persons in authority.

Reports Received

Pertaining chiefly to bribery, bootlegging, graft and graver and lesser offenses this report yesterday was placed by United States Attorney John T. Williams in the hands of Acting Director of Prohibition William R. Paget, District Attorney A. B. Tinning of Contra Costa county and D. J. Hall, city attorney of Richmond.

The "clean-up" which has already started in Contra Costa county. District Attorney Tinning announced, brought to light an ingenious "inter-county get-away."

The "get-away," Tinning added, was a gambling den conducted by a Chinese gambling king in El Cerrito. In a raid which he conducted, he said, 400 gamblers, chiefly from San Francisco and Oakland, escaped by fleeing down a stairway which takes them across the boundary line from Contra Costa to Alameda county.

Upon receiving the secret service report yesterday, Acting Director Paget announced that he would throw the entire strength of his office, if necessary, toward breaking up the East Bay booze ring.

Will Probe Murder

"Bootleggers in the district," he continued, "have been operating very carefully and quietly. Various reports which we received gave no indication of the extent of the booze situation in the district."

Ten private detectives from the Kane agency yesterday were thrown into the work of "cleaning up." It is understood generally that they were engaged by the Contra Costa authorities.

Investigators expect that the developments of the next few weeks will throw important light on the murder mystery of Al Shouse, ostensibly an automobile dealer who is believed to have been slain in a bootleg feud.

El Cerrito City Trustees Vote Street Repairs

The sum of $600 for the repair of Stockton avenue was set aside at the meeting of the El Cerrito city trustees last night, and Engineer Ross Calfee instructed to proceed at once with the work.

An electrical ordinance was presented the trustees by City Attorney T. M. Carlson. This was laid over for a week to give the members of the board an opportunity to study it.

City Clerk Alice Morris reported that she had certified the signatures attached to the petition asking the annexation of the C. W. Boden property and the city attorney was instructed to draw up a notice for a special election. No date was set for the vote.

Saturday Evening Post Story Gives Richmond Mention

Richmond is brought prominently before the manufacturing world of the East and the rest of the country by the second installment in this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post of Albert W. Atwood's article, "The Star of Empire," dealing with industrial development in the West.

The Richmond Industrial commission and Commercial club, through the efforts of which Richmond gets this showing in the famous publication, look on it as the most valuable piece of publicity it has ever succeeded in getting into the Eastern press, though it has been responsible for numerous articles on Richmond in trade, manufacturing and other publications.

Of three pictures used in the story, Richmond gets one, at the top of a page. It is a photo of Winehaven, which was one of several photos sent by the local commercial organization to the author. It is hoped that some Eastern manufacturer, seeing the picture of this big plant on the waterfront may have an idea that it would be available and seek it for a Western location if it could be purchased.

Atwood praises the East Bay section and gives Richmond the credit of being one of its most progressive communities and desirable manufacturing locations. He tells of this city having grown from a farm and pasture to a community of 30,000 with such plants as the Pullman Works, Standard Oil Western refinery and other important industries.

Commission Okehs Road Abandonment

The city planning commission met yesterday afternoon and acted favorably on the petition of the Standard Oil company that the road into their works be abandoned. The remainder of the meeting time was occupied with a general discussion of city parks and the welfare of the city.

FAIL TO REACH OPINION; ASK TO AGAIN EXAMINE SOME EXHIBITS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—Five hours of deliberation found the jury in the Frederick N. Littleton naturalization fraud case still deadlocked with seemingly little hope of reaching an immediate decision. The jury was taken to supper at 6:30 this evening and resumed consideration of the case at 8 o'clock.

Littleton, for sixteen years connected with the United States naturalization bureau in San Francisco, stood trial on six indictments that accused him of violating the naturalization laws in connection with the granting of fraudulent citizenship.

The jury, which had listened to testimony since August 7, was instructed shortly after noon by Judge Partridge and at 2:35 o'clock retired to deliberate.

The jury, shortly after retiring, asked for a blackboard upon which were the names of persons alleged to have been fraudulently naturalized by Littleton, and also for certain exhibits offered by prosecution and defense.

Arguments Made

The morning session was given over to the closing argument by Assistant United States Attorney General Fink. Fink in his final remarks, quoted Sir Walter Scott's famous lines: "Be there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said: 'This is my own, my native land.'" Littleton, said Fink, sold American citizenship to men who not only refused to fight for their native countries during the great war but became slackers in this country.

"That was the sort of slime," said Fink, "that this defendant, this man with the soul of gold, admitted to citizenship for sums ranging from $20 to $1000."

Breaks Records

The Littleton trial has broken all records for protracted cases in Federal courts in this district. The trial consumed forty-eight actual trial days. The nearest approach to that was the famous Hindu conspiracy trial before Federal Judge Van Fleet, November 20, 1917, and concluded April 23, 1918. At that trial there were sixty-nine actual trial days but ninety defendants were involved. In the Littleton case there was but the one defendant and the Government produced against him some eighty-seven witnesses. The trial has cost the Government in the neighborhood of $100,000, it was stated from an authoritative source.

Three Men AND a Maid

The skipper had crumpled a bit at first, but had given way—he always pulled the girl—with the result that Sam found himself sitting on the deck of the tug engaged in the complicated process of restoring his faculties to the normal. In a sort of dream he perceived Mr. Swenson rise to the surface some feet away, adjust his derby but, and after one long look of dislike in his direction, swim off rapidly to intercept a five which was floating under the stern of a nearby skiff.

"Yes, you're wet! We're the word, all right."

Sam sat on the deck and panted. He played on the boards like a public domain. At the back of his mind there was a flickering thought that he wanted to do something, a vague feeling that he had some sort of an appointment which he must keep; but he was unable to think what it was.

Meanwhile, he conducted tentative experiments with his breath. It was so long since he had last breathed that he had lost the knack of it.

"Well, another wet!" said a voice. The skipper's daughter was standing beside him, looking down commiserately. Of the rest of the family all he could see was the broad blue seats of their trousers as they leaned hopefully over the side in the quest for wealth.

"Thank! You sure are wet. Gee! I never seen anyone so wet! I seen wet guys, but I never seen anyone so wet as you. Kessir, you're certainly wet!"

"I am wet," admitted Sam. "Kessir, you're wet! We're the word all right. Good and wet, that's what you are!"

"It's the water," said Sam. His brain was still clouded; he wished he could remember what that appointment was. "That's what has made me wet."

"I've sure made you wet all right," agreed the girl. She looked at him interestedly. "Watcha do it for?" she asked.

"Do it for?"

"See, watcha do it for? How come? Watcha do a Brodie for on a ship? I didn't see it myself, but pa says you come waddling down off the deck like a sack of potatoes."

Sam uttered a sharp cry. He had remembered.

"Where is she?"

"Where's who?"

"The girl."

"She's off down the river, I guess. She was swinging round, the last I seen of her."

"She's not gone?"

"Sure she's gone. Watcha expect her to do? She's gotta get over to the other side, ain't she? Certainly she's gone!" She looked at him interestedly. "Do you want to be on board her?"

"Of course I do."

"Then for the love of Pete, watcha doin' waddlin' off the deck like a sack of potatoes?"

"I slipped. I was pushed or something," Sam sprang to his feet and looked wildly about him. "I must get back. Can't there any way of getting back?"

"Well, you could catch up with her at quarantine out in the bay. She'll stop to let the pilot off."

"Can you take me to quarantine?" The girl glanced doubtfully at the seat of the nearest pair of trousers.

"Well, we could," she said. "But pa's kind of set in his ways, and right now he's fishing for dollar bills with the Southfork. He's apt to get sorta mad if he's interrupted."

"I'll give him fifty dollars if he'll put me on board."

"Got it on you?" inquired the nymph. She had her share of sentiment, but she was her father's daughter and inherited from him the business sense.

"Here it is," he pulled out his pocketbook. The book was dripping, but the contents were only fairly moist.

"Pa!" said the girl. The trouser-seat remained where it was—best to its child's cry.

"Pa! Commere! Watcha!" The trousers did not even quiver. But this girl was a girl of decision.

There was some nautical implement resting in a rack convenient to her hand. It was long, solid, and constructed of one of the harder forms of wood. Dearly extracting this from its place she snote her inoffensive parent on the only viable portion of him.

He turned sharply, exhibiting a red, bearded face.

"Pa, this gentleman wants to be took aboard the boat at quarantine. He'll give you fifty berries."

The wrath died out of the skipper's face like the slow turning down of a lamp. The fishing had been poor, and so far he had only managed to secure a single two-dollar bill. In a crisis like the one which had so suddenly arisen you cannot do yourself justice with a boathook.

"Fifty berries?" the girl assured him. "Are you on?"

"Queen," said the skipper simply, "you said a mouthful!"

Twenty minutes later Sam was climbing up the side of the liner as it lay towering over the tug like a mountain. His clothes hung about him clammy. He quivered as he walked.

A kindly looking old gentleman who was smoking a cigar by the rail regarded him with open eyes.

"My dear sir, you're very wet," he said.

Sam passed him with a cold face and hurried through the door leading to the companionway.

"Mummie, why is that man wet?" cried the clear voice of a child.

Sam, whizzed by, leaping down the stairs.

"Good Lord, sir! You're very wet!" said a steward in the doorway of the dining-saloon.

"You are wet," said a stewardess in the passage.

Sam reared for his stateroom. He bolted in and sank on the lounge. In the lower berth Eustace Hignett was lying, with closed eyes. His opened them languidly—then stared.

"Hullo!" he said. "I say! You're wet."

Sam removed his clinging garments and hurried into a new suit. He was in no mood for conversation, and Eustace Hignett's frank curiosity jarred upon him. Happily, at this point, a sudden shivering of the floor and a creaking of woodwork proclaimed the fact that the vessel was under way again, and his cousin, turning green, rolled over on his side with a hollow moan. Sam finished buttoning his vest and went out.

He was passing the inquiry bureau on the C-deck, striding along with bent head and scowling brow, when a sudden exclamation caused him to look up, and the moon was wiped from his brow as with a sponge. For there stood the girl he had met on the dock.

"And, as Eustace was saying," resumed the girl, "you might have been left behind."

"That," said Sam, edging a step closer, "was the thought that tortured me, the thought that a friendship so delightfully begun."

"But it hadn't begun. We have never spoken to each other before now."

"Have you forgotten? On the dock..."

Sudden enlightenment came into her eyes.

"Oh, you are the man poor Pinky Boodies bit!"

"The lucky man!" Her face clouded.

"Poor Pinky is feeling the motion of the boat a little. It's his first voyage."

"I shall always remember that it was Pinky who first brought us together. Would you care for a stroll on deck?"

"Not just now, thanks. I must be getting back to my room to finish unpacking. After lunch, perhaps."

"I will be there. By the way, you know my name, but..."

"Oh, mine?" She smiled brightly. "It's funny that a person's name is the last thing one thinks of asking. Mine is Bennett."

"Bennett?"

"Wilhelmina Bennett. My friends," she said softly as she turned away, "call me Billie."

Sam was swinging round, the last I seen of her.

"She's not gone?"

"Sure she's gone. Watcha expect her to do? She's gotta get over to the other side, ain't she? Certainly she's gone!" She looked at him interestedly. "Do you want to be on board her?"

"Of course I do."

Date For New Phenomena Near; Interest Keen

If the time between this and November 4 were much longer there might easily develop a feud that would take years to heal, and that would seriously handicap scientific progress.

The group of men who have looked upon the promise of spectacular stellar action on that date as worthy of attention have been so bitterly opposed by the incredulous element, such hard words, such scathing criticism has been broadcast that the whole topic has now assumed wide, general interest.

There will undoubtedly be an active watch set during the entire 24-hour period of November 4, both sides being anxious to prove their own attitude, and to be able to laugh at the folly of the enemy.

Mysterious and cryptic, still come the hints, repeating their promise of unsuspected phenomena to be revealed in due course. Questioning and investigation have alike failed to trace the source of these messages, though they breathe an authority which few dare deny.

Patience is the only salvation for this situation. The hours will soon pass, the truth or fallacy, the meaning or absurdity of it all will soon be made apparent. The need to scan the sky will soon be past.

"Why Are My Parents" Film At Macdonald

"Who Are My Parents?" will be the picture shown at the Macdonald theater tonight. This is a heart story that has made a great hit with the public wherever it has been shown. The unusual circumstances attending its advent on the screen attracted attention to it from the start. The name of its author is a secret. Known only as "Mr. X," he has shown such decided ability as a story writer for the screen that the Fox organization has given him orders for several more scripts.

An important feature in the construction of the story is the compact method used in building the plot. Every scene and character develops the plot, which hinges upon the determination of a father to prevent his daughter from marrying the man she loves.

The production is impressive from start to finish. J. Searis Dawley, the director, has shown excellent judgment in his selection of locations and no expense has been spared that would add to the success of the picture.

HEALTH HINTS
by the Father of Physical Culture

Activity is the law of life, and this is no less true in age than in youth, though there are some modifications to be made in the manner of exercise. Just so soon as one settles down to "be old," or, in other words, to stagnate mentally or physically, just so soon do his powers atrophy and decline and it does not matter whether the process starts in at the age of forty or eighty. The only way to retain youth up to the last is to maintain the healthful conditions and activities of youth.

We should remember that old age is a matter of physical condition rather than of years.

Speaking briefly, age means a loss of elasticity, especially in the cartilages and in the walls of the blood vessels. A great deal is said about the hardening of the arteries, but this is a matter affecting the health and nutrition of the body. Since we know that circulation depends upon this elasticity of the blood vessels, next to the essential pumping of the heart, the importance of keeping the arteries in good condition, and for the sake of this, the general health, will be obvious.

Nearly all ordinary exercises suitable for all-around development can be practiced with benefit by those who are passing through their advanced years, except that in some cases they would better be performed more slowly.

Owing to the gradual loss of elasticity in the arteries, it is not wise for those who are very old to attempt violent or very rapid exercises. As a rule, those which call for less speed or activity but more endurance are well suited. The requirements of children are just the opposite, for they can profit by lively games with only moderate demands upon their endurance. There are many cases in which old men have shown themselves capable of better endurance records in old age than in Walking is an ideal exercise for the old. The man of middle age may find himself rather awkward and stiff, but if he will take up faithful and persistent physical training he will find that all of this will disappear in a few months and he will again enjoy the activity and strength of his early maturity.

WORK STARTS ON NEW HOME

Work was started yesterday on the new home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McIntine on 6000... avenue, the contractor to have the house ready for occupancy before February 1. Mrs. McIntine arrived last week from Pennsylvania to join her husband who has been here for some time.

GRANDFATHER VISITS

W. B. McLaren of Olympia, Nebraska is visiting in Point Richmond at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. J. S. Williams.

SPEND DAY IN SAN FRANCISCO

Mrs. Joe Eaton and Mrs. Amelia Eaton spent yesterday in San Francisco.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR BAZAAR

The Point Methodist Ladies' Aid bazaar, which is to be given on Wednesday, November 7, has been fully arranged for and bids fair to be a successful event. Fancy work for the bazaar should be turned in to Mrs. M. R. Burdick, 465 West Richmond avenue, and aprons should be given to Mrs. J. P. Smith, 33 Nevada avenue, not later than Tuesday.

According to reports last night by committees working to aid county Boy Scouts in securing the $10,000 fund sought for the coming year's work, Richmond's portion, $2200, has almost been secured, and those sponsoring the drive are confident that the money will be raised well within the time limit. The drive will be continued until Monday.

Building for Growth

LONG in advance of actual work telephone construction must be foreseen, engineered and financed.

Many men and many machines, unseen by you, are working to provide you and your neighbors with adequate service.

If you had magic eyes, you could see, all over America, thousands of towns where work is in progress. Every working day the Bell System's bill for new construction is over three-quarters of a million dollars.

All of this new construction benefits you. Every extension of telephone facilities, any where, increases the value of telephone service everywhere.

Every dollar's worth of new Bell System construction enables each community better to work out its own destiny and knits it and other communities more closely together into a national commonwealth of speech.

Johnnie: "Three little humps and an apple seed, six little humps and an apple seed."

RICHMOND SET FOR GAME WITH MARTINEZ TEAM

Richmond High school football warriors and the Alhambra High eleven of Martinez will meet at 2:30 this afternoon at Nicholl field to battle for the pigskin championship of Contra Costa county. Both teams played consistently strong football throughout the year and the dope sheet fans give them about the same average for the fray.

Both teams have defeated the strong Alameda team by small scores, and the odds appear to be about fifty-fifty for a hard fought game, the victory going to the team getting the breaks.

Richmond high eleven has a number of men out of the game with injuries, but the remaining men are confident that they will give the team from the county seat a real fight for the championship. The team has been pointing for the game for some time and is on its toes for the encounter.

Samples, Vargas, Dick Paasch and Kalin are all more or less injured and it is doubtful if any of them will get in the game, handicapping the team to a marked degree for a championship battle. In spite of the shortness of material, however, Coach Hill is sending in a strong team and the prospects for a championship pennant for Richmond this year are bright.

Owing to these injuries in the regulars the lineup has been shifted considerably, the team to take the field today being a different combination than has played for the Blue and Red this year. Howard Roe, who has played a good game at end all season, has been taken from that position and made into a guard to fill the vacancy left by Dick Paasch. Paasch may get in the game for a while, but Roe has been showing up well and should play a good game at the new position. Concannon, the other regular guard, will be on duty this afternoon. Concannon has been playing good ball all season and will undoubtedly serve the whole period at his position.

With Claude Samples out of the game the other end is also without a regular player, so Welsberger has been taken from the backfield to play the protection position for the game. Chattleton is the only regular end to be in the lineup this afternoon in his own position and is expected to make a good showing. Theist and Samples will both be in suit, however, ready to go if necessary.

Captain Doug Gray and Bob Paasch, three regular tackles, will both be in the game ready to give the excellent account of themselves that they have every game this year.

Kiraly, the regular center, is another player that will not start the game, and it is possible that Zahner will play the entire game at that position.

George Corneil will call signals at quarter, Carol Pitchford will probably act as fullback, and Muth and Lee will start as halves. The backfield has been shifted so much it is uncertain just what showing they will make, but a strong machine is expected.

The Richmond team may be outweighed several pounds per man by the county seat aggregation but a fight is expected and if any dope is reliable, the fight will be a bitter one.

Urges Entry in Industrial Cage League at Once

By next week the Industrial Basketball league will be an assured fact. The league will be conducted under the joint auspices of W. L. Seawright, director of physical education of the Roosevelt Junior High school and the local Y. M. C. A., according to a statement by A. W. Mueller, general secretary of the local association. Great interest is being shown in the plans of the city and a good array of teams are expected to sign up for the season. Managers of teams are requested to get in touch with either Seawright at the Junior High school, or with Mueller at the Richmond Y. M. C. A.

Dredger Working In Inner Harbor

Finishing work in the outer channel Thursday, the United Dredging company's dredge moved to the inner harbor yesterday morning and is now pumping mud into the city's tidelands opposite Joe Schmidt's point.

As soon as the mud has been pumped from the clay the clay will be pumped to the retaining wall to be erected by the government as part of this year's improvement in the harbor. The dike between the city tidelands and the bay has been nearly completed, the finishing touches and riprapping to be done after the dike has settled.

The outer channel to the harbor is now 450 feet wide, 150 feet wider than when the dredger started work, and all ocean steamers can easily navigate the passage, according to J. H. Misner, harbor manager.

PUBLIC FORUM

Communications regarding the four proposals which will be on the ballot November 6 are invited by the Record-Herald and will be printed in this column. Both proponents and opponents of these measures will be given consideration. If you favor one or all of the proposals, or if you are opposed to them, write about it, giving your reasons in each instance.

URGES VOTERS TO STAND AGAINST NEW CHARTER

Editor of the Richmond Record-Herald:

Dear Sir: If you will please publish for the benefit of the citizens of Richmond, who have the welfare of our city at heart, that portion of the proposed new charter pertaining to the referendum, initiative and recall, or just the main and pertinent features thereof, together with your interpretation thereof, you will confer a great favor to all who desire to vote intelligently upon this most important of matters submitted on the ballot for our vote on November 6.

Most of the people with whom I have talked concerning the proposed charter have a very genuine idea or understanding of the whole charter and especially about the referendum measures. In fact, hardly anyone has read it or knows anything at all about it.

According to my understanding of the proposed charter, should it carry, the voters might as well throw up their hands and let the council do whatever they like, no matter how good or how bad it would be for the city and its people, for they, the people, the voters, would have nothing to say about any legislation whatever.

It would be practically impossible for the citizen-voters of Richmond to institute any proceedings requiring the initiative, referendum and recall for the reason that not sufficient voters could be induced to go personally before the city clerk at the city hall and sign and affidavit or other necessary legal papers to call an election on anyone of these most important weapons of defense, now in the hands of the people.

No matter how old or had the old charter may be, the new one with the right of franchise practically taken away from the voters, is a hundred times worse. VOTE NO and tell all your friends to VOTE NO on the charter.

Respectfully yours,
E. J. BURG.

VOTE TO JOIN WATER DISTRICT IS URGED

Editor Record-Herald:

Just a year ago the city of Richmond voted down a proposition to unite in a water district, which it carried, would have assured our fast growing city all the water needed for all years to come at the lowest possible rates and given to us our full share of control in the project. The same scarecrows were brought out to defeat the project that are being used against the hospital bonds; extra taxation, municipal ownership; a hazardous venture, etc. The trick worked. We were defeated. Big business has gone by us. We are just rubbing the dust from our eyes and come again as repentant supplicants asking to be taken in out of the cold.

Will the same false economist with the same tactics pull the same trick and defeat a plan to provide a much needed hospital. Water, schools, churches, libraries, baths, hospitals—these denote enterprise and are strong factors in bringing in both labor and capital. There can be no mistake in voting YES on water, bath and hospital.

Yours for progress,
AUBRAY WILSON.

Somewhere in America,

My Dear Mr. Bok:

I'VE BEEN reading A GREAT deal lately, IN THE newspapers

WHERE YOU'VE posted

TO BE awarded

FOR A WORKABLE plan

THAT WILL bring about

UNIVERSAL peace

AND I am one

OF A great army.

OF MEN

WHO ARE anxiously waiting

FOR SOME master mind

TO COME forward

WITH A plan

THAT WILL establish

A LASTING peace

AND ONE with honor

BUT UP TO date

THERE HASN'T been

ANY RUSH for the money

SO I'VE decided

TO DROP you a line

AND LET you know

THAT IT won't be necessary

FOR YOU to search

AND SPEND your time

AND YOUR good money

FOR I'VE a scheme

THAT I'VE BEEN working on

THAT SHOULD deliver

AND AS IT is

RATHER LENGTHY

AND SOMEWHAT complicated

I HAVEN'T the space

TO PRESENT it here

BUT IF you'll send me

Ladies' League Discuss Cooking

It happened at the meeting of the ladies' better home league. The question of good cooking arose. Every lady present agreed that good cooking was a very important thing if health was to be preserved in the home. Naturally the discussion was long drawn out, as one might easily imagine when a group of women get together.

Finally one woman surprised the gathering by announcing that her dinner was being cooked right at that minute while she was at the meeting.

"Oh, I know," another lady said, "you have a fireless cooker." "No I haven't," the first lady answered. "But I have something that is far superior to any fireless cooker that one ever saw." "It simply takes the guesswork out of cooking."

"Why what can it be?" several ladies asked at once.

The first lady smiled sweetly at the rest, then answered: "I'll let you in on the secret. It is the new Wedgewood range with the New Thermostat Oven heat control that makes it impossible to burn or scorch the food while cooking."

"Why it's the finest thing you ever saw. I can stay away ever so long without having to worry about the things I have in the oven."

They are on sale at the L. F. Schrader Furniture Co. adv. E.O.D.

A branch postoffice is to be opened at the furniture store of James G. Jassen, 2015 Macdonald avenue, according to an announcement made yesterday by Postmaster James N. Long. The new office will be open about November 12, he said.

Social Night At Wesley M. E. Is Success

"The Mollycoddle," one of Douglas Fairbank's finest pictures, was shown to a full house at the Wesley Methodist church last night. The picture proved a big success and was well received by both the children and older people who attended. "The Sugar Trail" was the name of the educational feature of the evening. The picture showed every detail of making sugar from the sugar beet. The popular orchestra directed by J. E. Hill gave the opening and closing musical numbers, and played during the intervals. Con Batin gave a very clever whistling solo during the intermission, assisted by the orchestra.

Next Friday "My Own United States," an accurate film version of the book, "The Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale, will be shown. Arnold Daly will have the leading role in this picture and the costumes and settings are perfect. The picture is the American Legion naturalization picture and is a picture that everyone should see.

Divorces Husband Who Warred On Knickers

Photo shows Marie Hotchkiss in the garb because of which she divorced her husband, Raymond Hotchkiss. They met at Waukegan, Ill., three years ago, when Hotchkiss was a dapper warrant officer of the navy and were married. After spending a honeymoon in New York they left for Bar Harbor, Maine, where Hotchkiss was stationed. From then on, she stated, life was one torn pair of knickers after another. She was so incensed at his attitude toward the bifurcated garment that she told the judge she preferred the knickers and her freedom to her husband. The judge granted her plea.

Rigidly Enforce Wright Act In Contra Costa

The steady battle being waged by Sheriff R. R. Veale and District Attorney A. B. Tinning to stamp out the liquor traffic in Contra Costa county is proving effective as shown by figures which reveal the results of enforcement of the prohibition measures in the county.

Since the first of December, 1922, a total of $47,741 has been collected in fines on charges of liquor possession and violations of the Wright Act. This figure does not include, however, sums collected in the city of Richmond, where many raids have been made by the police in conjunction with the county dry squad.

The sums collected during the months from December last to the first of November this year are given as follows: December, $15,150; February, $1,000; March, $3,870; April, $6,925; May, $4,796; June, $3,650; July, $7,600; August, $5,650; September, $6,700; October, $6,400.

HAVE LARGE TERRITORY

In face of the fact that Contra Costa authorities have a large and cosmopolitan territory to cover with seventy miles of waterfront, the liquor laws are said to be more effectively enforced than in any other county in northern California—the fines imposed larger and the raids on violators more consistent.

Not alone have the efforts of the officers been directed to the arrest and prosecution of bootleggers but a steady battle has been waged by District Attorney Tinning to close establishments where intoxicating liquor is dispensed through abatement proceedings under provisions of the Volstead act.

As a result of Tinning's activities during the past several months sixteen buildings in the county have been closed for one year by court order, the rulings in the various cases being so stringent that even the removal of furnishings and fixtures from many of the bootleg joints has been forbidden.

There are several other abatement proceedings now pending trial that have recently been filed in the superior court by the district attorney.

WORK EFFECTIVE

The squad of officers working on the dry law enforcement under the direction of Sheriff Veale and the district attorney has proven efficient and effective in combatting the ever active minds of the violators and besides bringing into court several hundred on charges of liquor sales, the dry officers have met with marked success in ferreting out distilling plants and in a number of cases the stills have been found and confiscated while the first run of liquor was being made.

The results of the prohibition enforcement in Contra Costa county have completely shattered vicious propaganda which has been broadcasted to the effect that the cost of enforcement would prove a heavy burden on the tax payer.

With an excess of $45,000 collected in less than one year in liquor fines, it is announced that the cost of the enforcement during that period has been between $15,000 and $20,000 leaving over $25,000 in the county treasury.

Besides counteracting opposition propaganda the activities of the county officers has brought out the fact that the liquor laws can be effectively enforced and that there are at present far less wanton violations of these measures in Contra Costa than in other counties. The district attorney has proven efficient and effective in combatting the ever active minds of the violators and besides bringing into court several hundred on charges of liquor sales, the dry officers have met with marked success in ferreting out distilling plants and in a number of cases the stills have been found and confiscated while the first run of liquor was being made.
